Linear phase-spectral optical coherence tomography and phase-shift demodulation. We report a linear phase-spectral optical coherence tomography (OCT) technique that uses high-resolution phase spectrometer which enables us to convert an interferogram to the intensity spectrum. In OCT imaging, a linear phase-shift demodulation technique that extracts the correlation between the reference arm and the sample arm of a Michelson interferometer has been proposed, and, by combining the technique with a linear phase-spectral demodulation technique, we have developed phase-spectral OCT. In addition, it has been experimentally demonstrated that, by using both the linear phase-spectral and linear phase-shift demodulation techniques together, three-dimensional (3-D) OCT images can be reconstructed without the need for any Fourier transform algorithms or any phase unwrapping.

Q: How to add a row to a matrix with zero elements Using Python, I want to add a row to a matrix that is a 0-1 matrix of unsigned integers. How do I do this? I have tried: `row1 = np.zeros((number_of_rows, number_of_columns))` However, that doesn't add a row of zeros. I tried: `row1[number_of_rows] = 0` But that doesn't work either. Any ideas? A: Use NumPy's inplace methods

Create 2D array
arr = np.arange(0,12).reshape(3,4)
Set values in row 1 to 0
arr[1] = 0
Print array
print arr
Matrix multiplication method
[ 0 1 2 3 # 4 5 6 7 # 8 9 10 11]

Juice or coke Now even we've heard of the question "Juice or coke?", we've decided to write a little something about it. Are you planning on going to a club tomorrow and you don't know what to order? Or you simply feel a little nervous about ordering a drink? If you feel any of these situations, just go to your favorite bar, sit down, or even better stand up in front of one. Read our guide on the difference between juices and coke and then watch out for what you want tomorrow at the club.

Q: How do I get custom fields in the media library I have a custom list that has custom fields, but none of those fields show in the media library of the site in edit mode. My `simple_onepage.xml` In the new screen I see the custom fields, but not in the edit mode of the listing. Any ideas? A: I ended up solving it by adding the fields to the published screen, then removing the custom fields for display in the list. There is a reason why the fields weren't showing when I went into edit mode, because I had removed them for display. The objective of the proposed studies is to understand the function of a regulatory region of the LDL receptor gene. The regulation of this gene by a proximal CACCC box located within 1 Kb of the cap site of transcription is known. Because this CACCC box may be part of a larger negative regulatory element, detailed analysis of the DNA region between the CACCC box and the cap site will be carried out. The changes in DNase I sensitivity that occur with this region of the gene (i.e., DNase I hypersensitive sites), and the possible functional significance of these changes, will also be explored. Additional experiments will examine the effects of factors that are known to influence the level of LDL receptor gene transcription and the extent of LDL receptor mRNA turnover on the transcription and function of the proximal CACCC box. Such factors include sterol regulatory element binding protein (SREBP), glucocorticoid, 3-glucosidase, heat shock factor (HSF), and calcium.
