Check Caps Lock and Num Lock status from the system tray. Keyboard status is very useful, especially for laptop users. Display all active keys using a status icon. Built-in tray icon. Works on all Windows versions. Additional Modifications: Armed Forces Alert (That is for world peace and something to do with NASA) CapsLockON requires no installation so you can run it right away. CapLockON is a small and simple small application. Compatible with Windows systems, it is the ideal application for anyone who uses a laptop. That is because it is designed to help you easily monitor the status of the Caps Lock and Num Lock keys. All you have to do is launch the application and it will show you all the information you need. It does not have any configuration parameters, so it does not need to be installed or configured before use. Although the program is simple, it has high usability features. Its easy to launch and it is also super-lightweight. Anyone who is familiar with simple applications will understand very quickly what the CapsLockON program does. The system tray icon is basically in all applications that monitor the status of the keys. This is simply not possible with this application. The icon is normally flat and quite big, but it also has a little black arrow on the right side of it. This means that there is a status icon in the system tray. However, if you are not sure whether the light is switched on or not, you can also see the light under the icon. As I said, there are no configuration settings or parameters of any sort with this program. You can simply launch it and it works. Additionally, if you do not want the program to run automatically when your PC starts up, you can choose when it should start on your PC. Normally, you can start the application without running it automatically. The program also works fine with almost any number of users. The other major feature is that you can get the status of the Caps Lock and Num Lock keys. It does not matter which laptop you are using. This also includes the N series, X series and X series models. It will work fine. On the whole, we think that it is good news that the program does not require installation. In this way, it is quite simple to use. Fortunately, it is lightweight and has a very simple and uncomplicated interface. In addition, it is possible to always check the Caps Lock or Num Lock status in the system tray. "I could

You might have noticed how many windows and applications have CapsLock and NumLock keys next to the letter keys. For instance, the “L” and “1” keys are for the NumLock and CapsLock functions. Or, from the Windows logo key, you can also use the keys for these functions. While these keys are considered important, if your computer has a built-in status indicator, it won’t be possible to use them. The problem is that most laptops don’t have a built-in indicator for these keys. They are little lights but they don’t always work. However, with CapsLockON, you can use these functions as they should be, and even better, you can have these functions highlighted in the system tray. So, you will know that when you have an important message, or if there is an update in your system, you will be able to use these keys without needing to use the function key. You might want to use NumLock more, however, and you probably want to use the “Num” key instead of “1”. Well, with CapsLockON you can simply make the “1” key the substitute for the “Num” key. You can also use the “Backspace” key instead of the “CapsLock” key to activate the Lock function. But, most people like to use the “CapsLock” key instead of the “Backspace” key for that function. What’s more, CapsLockON also has a built-in command that will give you a nice light display, and you can use it to customize the indicator on the system tray. You can choose the look of the display and even the color for the text. It is very simple to use, and it will help you have a perfectly functioning status indicator for the CapsLock and NumLock functions. CapsLockON: • In-depth configuration of the text, font and color • The possibility to change the colors of the text • Displaying the status of your CapsLock and NumLock keys • You can define a shortcut key to activate the CapsLock function • “Num” key in place of the CapsLock key • “Backspace” key in place of the CapsLock key • The “CapsLock” key in place of the “Backspace”

Display status of Caps Lock and Num Lock keys on your system tray. CapsLock ON is a keyboard utility that displays an icon in the system tray to indicate the status of Caps Lock and Num Lock keys. It works for all hardware (PC and laptops) and operating systems. You will be able to see the status of these keys at a glance! The information displays how many times CapsLock or NumLock have been pressed. Another indication of the status of the key (ie: CapsLock, NumLock, ScrollLock) is also displayed in the system tray. All information is updated in the system tray automatically. No need to run the program every time you turn the computer on or off. Most of our users are satisfied with our software. They recommend it to their friends because it's easy to use and doesn't require much computer experience. A retired Texas Circuit Court judge has been accused of sending nude photos of a female juror to a federal court official, according to an affidavit. “When the jury returned with a guilty verdict against Charles Coppinger, the District Judge confronted him and accused him of committing more crimes,” Assistant U.S. Attorney Jeffrey Ryan’s affidavit stated. Coppinger allegedly sent a photo of the juror to U.S. District Court of Houston Division Chief Charles Montgomery on Aug. 4. Coppinger used his daughter’s email address to send the photo, and included a “good morning.” Coppinger retired from the court in 2004 after he sent text messages to a minor. He pleaded guilty to receiving child pornography in 2009, according to the affidavit. The assistant U.S. attorney said Coppinger did not have the specific assignment of a jury when the alleged incidents happened. Ryan said Coppinger is not on the bench and that “none of the jurors were on the bench at that time.” The U.S. Marshals Service conducted an investigation to determine whether Coppinger violated the court’s order of protection. Coppinger has not been charged with any additional crimes, but he was removed from the bench in September, according to the affidavit. The affidavit states that in July, another juror had a sexual relationship with Coppinger and that she told the Court Administration Office that the two were having sexual relations. The juror said the relationship began in 2011 and ended in
