This article will show you how to use Photoshop Elements to edit and create Photoshop-like images. Note: For readers who want the full details of Photoshop, we recommend you read our guide to using Photoshop instead. Adobe Photoshop Elements is more than just a graphics editor or image editor. It comes with a drawing tool and a web browser. We'll show you how to use these tools with Photoshop Elements. Drawing & Drawing Tools Adobe Photoshop Elements has a built-in drawing tool (which is similar to the Painterly tool). This tool can be used to create vector graphics. You can create a textured or smooth surface with it and apply various effects to the object. Note: You can also draw directly in a Photoshop-like layout with the drawing tools in the Elements editor. The drawing tools in Photoshop Elements come with numerous options for drawing objects, shapes, lines, text, and more. In this article, we'll show you how to use the drawing tools to create a 3D cube. How to Create a 3D Cube in Photoshop Elements Step 1: Open a New Image Open the desired layer for the drawing tool. Step 2: Draw an Object You can set the tool's options like drawing size, brush size, and more. In this tutorial, we'll be using a pen tool to draw a simple cube. Keep in mind that drawing in this tool is not the same as drawing in the traditional Photoshop tools. Step 3: Create the Cube Select the Pen tool and a brush (we use a size 5 brush with a black color). The brush size is related to the width of the pen stroke. Step 4: Create the Cube To add a new side of the cube, hold Alt and then click the edges of the box to add the new side. Repeat the steps to add the other sides of the cube. Add some texture to the cube by clicking the Add Texture button. Step 5: Rotate the Cube Click the tab at the top of the drawing area to view the tools. From the Drawing tab, you can rotate the object 180°. To create another rotated version of the cube, click the X button in the corner of the drawing area. To create a mirror-inverted version of the cube, choose Flip Vertical from the Flip dropdown menu. Create more cubes a681f4349e

Q: Using Substitute in XDocument to replace certain characters I want to use an Xdocument to replace a certain character with a new one (with a simple backslash " before the special character). For example: I have the following XML: Maximilian Mayer I want to change the '-' in the lastname (Maximilian Mayer -> Maximilian Mayer's) So far I have the following code but I don't know how to replace the value of the '-' XDocument newXml = new XDocument(new XElement("detail", new XElement("firstname", newXml.Root.Element("name").Value), new XElement("lastname", newXml.Root.Element("address").Value))); Any help would be great.

A: I'd suggest to use XElement.SetAttributeValue or XElement.CreateAttributeValue to set the attribute value of the element: XDocument doc = new XDocument(new XElement("detail", new XElement("firstname", newXml.Root.Element("name").Value), new XElement("lastname", newXml.Root.Element("address").Value))); var firstname = doc.Root.Element("firstname").Element("name").Value; var lastname = doc.Root.Element("lastname").Element("address").Value; var newXml = new XDocument(new XElement("detail", new XElement("firstname", firstname), new XElement("lastname", lastname

A storm that triggered deadly floods in Delhi on April 14 has left India with the biggest-ever number of casualties of floods. Hundreds are thought to have been killed in the country since April 7, when rains started to batter the northeast of India, displacing up to nine million people. People fleeing from Delhi to Mumbai and Bangalore in the south were killed in trucks that were swept off roads by raging water, while a Bangladeshi truck driver was killed in the Indian capital when his truck overturned in a flash flood. India has spent around 400 billion rupees ($6.3 billion) to fight floodwater, according to the Central Government. The rains in some parts of India are still ongoing and could set a new global record for flooding, according to the United Nations' World Meteorological Organisation (WMO). "[T]he current dryness and high pressure system is one of the oldest recorded in the Indian Ocean and perhaps the most consistent one in the last 20 years. It has been on in the Indian Ocean since May," said WMO spokesman Jay Lanclin. "All seasons have been unprecedented. Rains have fallen at rates never seen before. Even in China, whose previous record was 2.5 mm of rain a year, the figures reached 16 mm of rain in one month," he said. The WMO has documented since November the rainfall "surpassing" past events in the Indian subcontinent, WMO figures showed. WMO data showed: It has been in in the Indian Ocean since May It is one of the oldest "dry" conditions in the Indian Ocean, which is usually wet It is "probably the most consistent" condition in the Indian Ocean over the last 20 years It beat the November-December period of the same year which had 8.5mm of rain in a month (total rainfall in November-December 2016 was 7.4mm) About 50 people have died in Nepal, 52 in Bangladesh, and up to seven people in India. Bangladesh has sent rain-deprived farmers to the capital Dhaka on forced labour, and India has activated plans to evacuate flood-hit people to third countries, officials said. Floods displaced nine million people in India and Nepal, as the Indian capital New Delhi struggled with a fourth deluge in less than a month, according to the United Nations' refugee agency, UNHCR.
