New York State Senate Majority Leader Dean Skelos walks into a closed legislative session at the State Capitol Building in Albany, New York, U.S. May 9, 2015. The state Senate met behind closed doors on Monday to discuss the state budget, which has been running a deficit. REUTERS/Mike Segar NEW YORK (Reuters) - The Senate Republican leader said on Monday he disagreed with his party’s defeat this month in a budget vote and wished it had not occurred, saying the debate was healthy for the state. With Democrats in control of the U.S. Congress, Senate Republicans were asked to accept budget cuts to avoid a partial government shutdown on Oct. 1.
