* Corel Paint Shop Pro This long-standing program is usually associated with photo editing and manipulation. It lets you work with pixels, but it lacks many of the special effects that Photoshop offers. Figure 17-3 shows Paint Shop Pro. Figure 17-3: Corel Paint Shop Pro. * Paintbox Pro This is a very simple photo-editing program that costs just $20. You can use it to do basic image manipulation but it's not a very powerful tool. * Graphics Magic This program has a really narrow focus, which is to let users create multi-layer PSD documents. If you need any form of advanced image manipulation or non-photographic media creation, this is a good program to look at. It's also a program I recommend if you find yourself in a pinch and need to quickly create a basic graphics document. You get a lot for your money if you need to create more than a simple PSD document. * Illustrator You might consider Illustrator for creating basic graphic formats, and then going to Photoshop or Paint Shop Pro to transform the graphic into a photorealistic final image. Illustrator also includes other great editing tools for raster images. However, you can't use it to create vector images.

Is your power bill very high? Do you know what causes your power bill to increase? More than ever, you need to understand how your power bill really works. For one, that's important because if you're paying a power bill you know will jump up significantly each month, you probably don't have a good idea as to what's causing that. Is it hydro or solar? Will solar keep you free forever? I'll address the first point, that your power bill is too high by giving you the answer that many people will already know. Yes, it's probably due to the fact that your power bill at home is high because your house is larger. You also likely have appliances such as refrigerators, electric ovens and stoves, laundry machines, dishwashers, etc. Of course there are other factors, but you'll find that they're fairly basic things that don't get much more complicated than that. In some instances, it may be solar power instead of hydro that will take care of your energy needs. Have you ever heard of solar electricity? It's pretty much an electric company delivering power to your home and asking for a fee for it. The fee is basically what it takes to produce the electricity and purchase all the different kinds of power equipment and overhead costs. If you're using solar, that's what the fee is for you, and you won't have any business figuring out how much power that is to generate for your home. The question is, how large is your average power bill and how much should that cost? I'll tell you just how much and that's $400 per month. I know you might not expect that to be true, but you'll find it is. If you take a look at a typical month for your power bill, you'll see that it can easily rise from $200 to $400. Yes, that's a range of $200 to $400 and no month will reach $400 so it's a range. So how much will your power bill be? It will be somewhere in the middle, most likely around $300. You'll find that you're paying most of your power bill at night when you're asleep at home and that's when most homes are using hydro power. The amount
